

the sun always shines above the clouds.

The destiny of every living being
is to propagate in every possible way.
From the atomic to the cosmic
this is our beginning, our blossoming and our end.

Life is viral by nature.
Our glorious planet is testament to that.
Humankind is but one organism among countless others,
each on its respective primal quest to multiply.

Brilliant yet lethally deluded humankind has turned its innate Will to survive
into the ultimate weapon for self-harm
destroying itself along with its Mother Nature.

Compulsive addictions are war, religion, politics
and the pursuit of wealth, all viral by nature, immeasurably magnified by rampant technology, itself gone viral,
hurtling towards total dysfunction and collapse.

Every sunset, a sad realisation that today is gone forever.
Yet with each sunrise comes renewal and the chance to put things right.
Worth remembering that the sun always shines above the clouds.

Love heals and nurtures...thirsts to multiply too.
The day that humankind extends its love beyond itself
Love will have become the ultimate viral organism that saved our planet from itself.

the sun always shines above the clouds