The Professional Development office plays a significant role in the efforts of BHS to develop teaching and administrative personnel in carrying out their duties and staying up-to-date on current and changing methodologies and practices.

The Professional Development Office organises two In-Service Training days per year. INSET days are a great opportunity for peer collaboration and sharing of knowledge and best practice on pedagogies, content, assessments, educational technologies, and other professional practices. Over 120 teachers come together (in person or online) and engage in discussion, lectures, and activities that not only improve their teaching skills, but also create opportunities for cross-curricular, cross-sectional relationships and initiatives.
