Week 34: Asplenium ceterach, commonly known as Rustyback Fern (in Arabic حشيشة الذهب - Aspleniaceae family). The lower side of the fronds' rusty/golden appearance is the reason for both the English and Arabic common names.
On campus look for this tiny 10 cm fern growing on shady stone walls. It is particularly noticeable following the first good rain, which revives it after a protracted dry summer.
As part of the school's 150th-anniversary celebrations, the curator of Brummana High School Botanical Garden will dedicate a section of our weekly bulletin to highlight 150 plants that are currently flourishing on our campus. Every week, one plant will be profiled for its scientific and cultural significance. Our ultimate goal is to shed some light on the rich and diverse plant collection present on our campus, because, as the legendary naturalist Lord David Attenborough once said, "No one will protect what they don't care about; and no one will care about what they have never experienced."

Restoration Ecologist and Old Scholar Houssam Chaiban delivered an interesting presentation on Restoration Ecology for Grade 12 students. A twist for Biology majors, since today's generation is highly in need of restoration ecologists.

On Thursday, during the second break, the "I Serve" club organized a bake sale with the theme of breast cancer awareness. Proceeds will go to the Saint Jude's Cancer Research Center. A big thank you to the I Serve Club. Special thanks to Lynn Al H., Joey B., and Thea A. for handling all the logistics! #IServeClub #BHSiserve

Kg1 students enjoyed their first month of school. 🎉👏
They learned through play and were involved in hands on activities that made learning enjoyable.
👉 Our child centered environment helps students love learning and enjoy their time at school. 🥰
